

University of Southern California Authentication of Official Documents Delivered Electronically

This document has been transmitted electronically to the recipient specified by the owner of the record. If you are not the intended recipient, please notify the Registrar's office at the University of Southern California 213 740-7445 or gtv@usc.edu. Release of this record or disclosure of its contents to any third party without written consent of the record owner is prohibited.

This document has been digitally signed and therefore contains special characteristics. When this document is viewed through Adobe Reader versions 6.0 or higher or through Adobe Acrobat versions 6.04 or higher, it will reveal that a digital signature has been applied to the document. A pop-up screen or status bar will indicate whether the document is either valid, invalid, or whether the signer of the document is unknown and other measures must be taken to authenticate the document. In addition the pop-up screen allows for further examination of the digital signature, allowing you to authenticate the origin of the document.

A valid signature means that the document's contents have not been changed or altered in any way. Also, when the pop-up screen or status bar displays a message that the digital signature is valid it means that the author of the document is known to the certification authority and the person or institution represented by the digital signature is true and authentic. A document that contains a digital signature that can be instantly validated will display a blue ribbon on the pop-up screen or status bar and in the lower left corner of the frame of the application

An invalid signature display means either the digital signature is not authentic, or the document has been altered. Sometimes the digital signature has been revoked for some reason, or that it has expired. A document with an invalid display should be rejected.

A third possible message, Author Unknown, can have two possible meanings: the digital signature cannot be validated due to a disconnection to the internet, or that the digital signature cannot be instantly validated via the internet. If you receive this message make sure you are properly connected to the internet. If you have a connection and you still cannot validate the digital signature on-line, reject this document.

Academic Record Verification

The University seal and signature of the Registrar appear only on the first page. The face of this document has a colored background with the words University of Southern California in small print throughout the document. Erasures, stains or alterations of any type invalidate the record. When this document is photocopied in color or on the darker settings of a black and white copier, the word VOID will appear in large letters. A black and white verification is not an original and is therefore not an official document. Only official verifications bear the University seal and signature of the Registrar. The control number that appears at the top of the first page is a unique number used to reference information regarding the issuance of the verification. Further information or authentication of this document can be obtained by calling the Verification Department at (213) 740-7445. Alterations or misrepresentations of this record may result in criminal charges and/or disciplinary sanctions consistent with the University's Student Conduct Code.

Some of these courses are Master's Thesis and Doctoral Dissertation. The Office of Academic Records and Registrar is the only office which may provide official verification of student academic records.
